Valentín Mera is an Ecuadorian | Peruvian | American Singer-Songwriter and Music Producer based in Los Angeles, CA.

In 2018, Valentín transitioned into male, after having a career of over a decade as "Diana Mera"; he now comes back as a man and producer, releasing new singles composed, produced, and performed by him. Valentín is finalizing the production of his soon to be launched new Spanglish music album.

“Perreo Acholado”, his most recent bilingual music single is an upbeat, fun folk, and perreo song dedicated to the women in his life and Pisco, the traditional alcohol of Perú. Valentín’s records have distribution with Sony Music | The Orchard, managed by Alcamay Records and at the beginning of 2021 Valentín Mera signed with Sony Music/ATV Publishing as well, so now he has his whole music catalog under one roof.

Valentín Mera came to reside to the United States when he was a young teen after moving a lot as a kid. Mera has lived in Venezuela, Mexico, and Switzerland besides Peru and Ecuador. The US has been Valentín’s home for most of his life.

Encantador is his previous single (Bossa, Trova & Dance) based on his transition, inspired and also named his YouTube series, where he shares his life. A profile interview at NBC Telemundo's Acceso Total recently aired. After Encantador’s 1st Episode the network visited him at his home in LA to talk about his career, transition, and new dreams as he became who he always knew he was.

Valentín Mera's music is available for streaming and downloading on 50 global music platforms; has released 12 original singles in 2019 while experiencing a drastic vocal change. Mera directed 5 music videos that he shot with his iPhone, released 2 singles, including Perreo Acholado and launched his Series Encantador during the pandemic in 2020.

Valentín has fun recording any genre he feels attracted to, and so far he is having fun with trap, urban, electronic, alternative, indie, folk, cumbia, dubstep, trova, dance, reggaetón, pop, balada, salsa, and chill pop.

Before Valentín Mera's transition in 2018, as his former self "Diana Mera" his work was featured on:

Univision, Televisa, CNN, Telemundo, Azteca, Univision, Caracol, Ecuavisa and MTV-Español.

"Diana Mera" made history at the Latin Billboard Awards in 2012 for kissing a woman at a main red carpet event for the 1st time in Latam history, while signed with Universal Music. The press started calling them "El Beso Billboard".

Performed live shows at:

Universal Music City Walk, House of Blues, and Hard Rock Cafe in Hollywood, CA. Sold out shows at The Orpheum Theater, The Arsht Center, and festivals like La Campesina Radio, La Academia US Plaza Mexico, Festival Internacional LGBT Coyoacan, Mexico, Paramount Music Studios to mention a few highlights.

During a music hiatus, Mera worked behind the scenes and became a part of Production Teams for Viacom, MTV, Telemundo, Mun2, Bravo, Nickelodeon, and Netflix. Mera's favorite projects will always be Barbra's Netflix Music Special and Maluma's music video "Sin Contrato".
